

Do You Know What Your Technology Risks Are?

Technology Risk Assessment

Understanding Risks Associated with Information Systems and Infrastructure

Information technology risk assessments allow companies to understand risks associated with their IT organization infrastructure, and resources that support their corporate data and information. Understanding IT risks within an organization enables management to maintain a process that helps reduce or eliminate those risks.

Effectively Managing and Mitigating Information Technology Risk

IT risk assessments form the foundation for management to understand their IT risks and therefore manage and govern their levels of risk. Performing an IT risk assessment can be the first step in implementing an overall IT governance or it could be management's first clear view into the risks associated with their IT organization, resources, infrastructure, and systems.

Gain an Objective Assessment of Your Technology Risks

AC Lordi's IT professionals can assist your management team to identify, evaluate, and rank technology risks within your organization.

AC Lordi can help you:

- Identify scope and impact of technology risk assessment environment
- Align technology risk assessment with business risk assessment objectives
- Define high impact of short, medium, and long term risk objectives
- Assist management in defining and implementing risk mitigation plans

Contact us to find out how a Technology Risk Assessment can help you identify and mitigate your IT risks.